KHADRA

Khadra presents the color, tradition and romance of Eastern Europe. Fiery and upbeat, the Hopak (to leap and hop about) is an athletic Cossack dance and the traditional national dance of the Ukraine. Photo: Gary Sinick

Khadra is a joyous celebration of folk ballet in the tradition of the Moiseyev Dance Company. This professional company brings to the stage a varied and exciting repertory of North American and European folk ballets, all performed to live musical accompaniment. The presentations range from the color, tradition, and romance of Eastern Europe to the foot-stomping and hand-clapping of a down-home Saturday night barn dance.

The company is introducing a Family Concert Series, bringing together dance, music, and story-telling. These colorful fifty-minute performances feature dance and live music from Mexico, the Appalachian region, Eastern Europe and the Soviet Republics. Nationally recognized story-tellers Gay Ducey from Berkeley and Martha Stevens from Los Angeles weave both Appalachian and international folktales into the program.

Approaching its 20th anniversary, Khadra performs annually in San Francisco during its home season at the Palace of Fine Arts, and reaches over 20,000 children each year through its Arts Education Program in Bay Area schools. The company has performed on tour since 1983 and was "Ambassador in Residence" in 1984 at EPCOT Center in Florida's Disneyworld.

The troupe made its first European tour in 1989, performing the dances and music of Appalachia as the United States representative at international festivals in France and Belgium.

Educational programs include master classes for dance students, lecture/demonstrations for all ages, narrated youth concerts and school programs, and folk dance classes for children. The company also offers specially designed Arts Education Program activities to meet the needs of students.

Khadra's dancers are trained in classical ballet, European character dance and numerous folk dance styles. The company performs dances choreographed for the stage, embellishing upon folk traditions while maintaining the intrinsic nature of the cultures presented. Exotic instruments used in accompaniment include the cimbalom, a large stringed instrument descended from the Persian santuri; the Ukrainian domra, a round-bodied stringed instrument similar to the mandolin; and the bass balalaika, Russia's triangular three or four-stringed instrument.

Founded in 1971 at San Francisco State University, the company is dedicated to the highest ideals of excellence in dance, music and theater. More than a museum showcase, Khadra concerts present bold interpretations of folk material that blend ethnic, ballet, and character dance into a unique artistic statement. It is Khadra's intention to creatively explore this synthesis of styles and to bring folk ballet into its rightful place in the performing arts.

The Family Concert presentation takes place at the Cowell Theater on Sunday, November 11, at 1:30 and 3pm. Tickets are $6 general admission, $4 for children under 12. There is also a performance at the Walnut Creek Regional Center for the Arts on November 17.

For more information about Khadra's many offerings, call the company at 626-7360.

SUNDAY FUNNIES

This bigger-than-ever Comedy Night and Silent Auction benefits all programs and services of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of San Francisco. Battered women and children, the homeless, recovering addicts and alcoholics are helped and healed with the proceeds from this evening of fun.

Performers appearing at Comedy Night include Tom Kenny, Sue Murphy, David Feldman, the National Theatre For The Deranged, and Diane Conway.

The Fourth Annual Sunday Funnies takes place in the Conference Center, Landmark Building A, November 11 from 7 to 11pm. Admission is $25 per person, or $40 for two. Ticket price includes the comedy performances, food and drink, and the opportunity to bid on auction items valued from $5 to over $1,000.

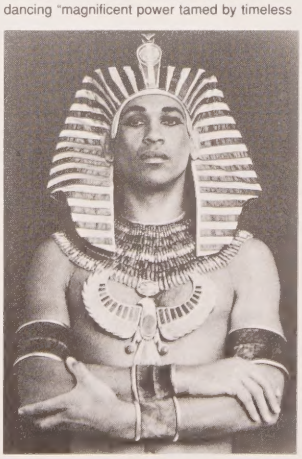
Tickets may be ordered in advance from the St. Vincent de Paul Society, 1745 Folsom Street, San Francisco 94103, Attention: Sunday Funnies. Tickets are also available at the door. For more information, call Valerie Wagner at the St. Vincent de Paul Society office, 558-8136.

MIRAGE: ANCIENT DANCE & ART DECO

"Belly dancing is an ancient, complex classical art form and not just 'hoochie koochie.' Historical records trace its roots to pre-patriarchal Middle Eastern societies," explains Horacio Cifuentes, Principal Dancer, Peninsula Ballet Theatre. "For centuries this form of dance has been misinterpreted or neglected. In my efforts to revive it and give it the dignity it deserves, I have retained the basic traditional steps and individual movements, but have developed a more lyrical and theatrical style."

Cifuentes presents "Mirage: An Evening of Oriental Dance" in the Cowell Theater on Saturday, November 10 at 8pm. A highlight of the evening is the premiere of "Orientalia," a new dance choreographed by Cifuentes. It is based on techniques of classical belly dance and inspired by the Art Deco images of the early 1900s. Featured in the concert are oriental dancers Suhaila Salimpour and Beata Zadou, Prima Ballerina Rosine Bena of the Peninsula Ballet, Sharlyn and Ballet Afsaneh, and Mythili Kumar, with the Abhinaya Dance Company from India.

As an Egyptian dancer, Cifuentes has been described by Linda Dinsmore of the Washington Post as "sinuous and serpentine, so fluid he pours from one movement to another.... He makes quivers so fine they seem like shivers of passion. While each gesture and pose is controlled, he almost bursts with emotion." Stephanie Salter of The San Francisco Examiner has called his dancing "magnificent power tamed by timeless grace." Formerly principal dancer/choreographer with the San Francisco Ballet, he has produced a series of three instructional videotapes demonstrating his concepts of combining ancient belly dance with the influences of contemporary dance. He has also performed and taught oriental dance in major cities all over the country, and now teaches at the San Francisco Dance Theatre in addition to his dancing with the ballet in San Mateo.



Among the featured performers in "Mirage: An Evening of Oriental Dance" are international dancer Beata Zadou (above) from Berlin and Horacio Cifuentes (left). Mr. Cifuentes also premieres "Orientalia," a combination of ancient belly dance techniques and Art Deco images.

Suhaila Salimpour, the daughter of an Arabic drummer and a noted Egyptian dancer, is the first Middle Eastern soloist who performed in the San Francisco Dance Festival, appearing from 1983 to 1985. She has choreographed and performed in numerous commercials, music videos and television series, including "Fame" and "Max Headroom." Currently, she teaches privately and performs weekly with her troupe at the Cabaret Tehran in Los Angeles.

Beata Zadou started her dance career at the age of six, with ballet classes in West Berlin. She left her study of medicine at the Free University of Berlin to attend a professional school for classic, modern and ethnic dance. She performs frequently on German television, and founded a private school of dance in Berlin. She teaches and performs on stages around the world.

Tickets for the dance concert are $22, and may be purchased at the door the evening of the performance, or in advance through BASS or STBS. For information, call 552-3656.

AN OLD TURKISH HOUSE

The San Francisco Craft & Folk Art Museum becomes the interior of a home of the Ottoman Empire during November and December, transformed by 18th and 19th-century Turkish furnishings.

Upon entering the Museum, one sees a section of living room, with the brass chimney hood that is the center of the home. Velvet divans with covers of embroidered silk line the walls, exquisite Turkish carpets cover the floors, and curtains of rich fabrics drape the windows. The fine crafts of Turkey are represented in turban holders, coffee tables of Edirne carpentry, Beykoz glass, rosewater flasks, calligraphy, and other handcrafted objects that decorate a Turkish home.

19th-century bronze Ottoman fireplace with tile border from Turkey.

The dining room is a dazzling display of copper trays, coral, silver, Yildiz porcelain, and rugs, as well as a wall fountain, charcoal burner, coffee set, and washbasin with ewer.

The bridal room features the bridal bed, chest, mirrors, jewelry boxes, laces, combs, traditional costume and other accessories representative of the Turkish woman. In the corner, the trousseau chest, a small hand-loom, and an embroidery hoop are visible. They speak of Turkish women of the past.

This exhibition was organized by Mrs. Semra Ozal, wife of the President of Turkey and Chairman of the Board of Directors for the Foundation for the Advancement and Recognition of Turkish Women, the organization sponsoring this project. The display has been designed especially to coincide with the Sixth International Conference on Oriental Carpets (see article "Fragments of an Ancient Puzzle"). Exhibition dates are November 3 through December 30, Tuesdays through Sundays from 11am to 5pm.

The show's Gala Opening Reception takes place on Tuesday, November 6, at 6:30pm in the Conference Center, Landmark Building A, following a special preview of the exhibition at 6pm. The reception features dancing by Arkadash, the Turkish folk ensemble. Admission is free. Earlier in the day (1pm), Isik Yazan, visiting curator from Istanbul, offers a walk-through of the exhibition, with insights into the collection and Ottoman decorative arts traditions. There is no charge beyond the $1 Museum admission fee.

"Harem: The World Behind the Veil" is a slide lecture about life in a Turkish harem by Alev Lytle Croutier, from her fascinating and revealing book. This special evening takes place in The Firehouse on Wednesday, November 28 at 7:30pm. Admission is $5.

For further information, call the Museum at 775-0990.

ACTIVISM AWARDS

The Gray Panthers of San Francisco host the Eighth Annual Age and Youth in Action Awards at a dinner at Fort Mason on November 5.

These awards honor individuals who have made a substantial contribution to the collective quality of life in this community, and who exemplify the Gray Panthers commitment to intergenerational activism.

Among the honorees this year is Fort Mason Foundation's Executive Director, Marc Kasky. He is cited for helping the nonprofit organizations at Fort Mason Center that are active in the arts, ecology, and the peace movement.

Also receiving awards are Marcia Argyris and Dena Goldberg, respectively President and Program Officer of the McKesson Foundation, the original funder and supporter of the Cheap and Nutritious Project; and Janet and Carl Carsten, cited as "tireless and committed workers" on the Gray Panthers' Membership Organizing and Peace Committees.

San Francisco has a world-wide reputation as a culturally diverse cosmopolitan community. The Gray Panthers present these awards as a special honor for those people who contribute to the health, welfare, dignity and well-being of this divergent population of all ages.

The event starts at 6pm in the Conference Center, Landmark Building A. Tickets range from $15 to $25.

For information about the Awards dinner or the Gray Panthers, call 552-8800.

COBRA LOUNGE

Spoonman (Mark Petrakis) says the Cobra Lounge is undomesticated fun for dangerous times.

Expect the unexpected when Spoonman, your Cobra Lounge guide, hosts a weekend festival of new and unusual performances. The evening features short pieces by talented and creative Bay Area artists. Join Spoonman November 30 and December 1, Friday and Saturday evenings in the Cowell Theater. The show begins at 8pm. General admission is $10. For information, call 381-5622.

FRAGMENTS OF AN ANCIENT PUZZLE

An exhibition of oriental rugs believed to be the largest ever assembled is among the displays in the Herbst Pavilion this month as a part of the Sixth International Conference on Oriental Carpets, sponsored by The Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco and The San Francisco Bay Area Rug Society. Several features of the conference take place at Fort Mason.

Oriental Rugs From Pacific Collections This is an extensive exhibition of rugs selected from Pacific Coast private collections.

Fragments of an Ancient Puzzle: The Origins of Tribal Rug Designs Organized by author, scholar, and collector James Opie, these tribal rugs illuminate the fascinating subject of design origins.

Central Asian Tribal Rugs of the S. M. Dudin Collections Sixty pieces from the Leningrad collections of turn-of-the-century Russian ethnographer S. M. Dudin are on display for the first time outside the Soviet Union. This first major loan of oriental rugs by a Soviet museum (The State Museum of Ethnography of the Peoples of the USSR) is comprised of Central Asian tribal rugs from pre-revolutionary times. It is a major scholarly resource on the vanishing cultures of tribal peoples of the USSR. The presence of this collection in San Francisco is the culmination of years of "Carpet Glasnost" between Soviet and West Coast rug scholars.

Oriental Rug Motifs in Beaded Purses This collection has been assembled over the last ten years by Stella and Frederick Krieger. It now consists of over 60 purses depicting oriental rugs and rug design elements, including Caucasian, Armenian, Turkish, Persian, and Chinese carpet motifs.

Afshari Rugs: The John Corwin Collection This exhibit displays a selection from the largest private collection of rugs in America and Europe.

The conference takes place at the San Francisco Marriott Hotel, and includes, in addition to the exhibitions, a program featuring over 80 speakers, and a dealers' rug fair. As many as a thousand participants, including collectors, scholars, museum curators, conservators, and dealers are expected to attend.

Other exhibition sites include The M.H. de Young Museum; The Lowie Museum of Anthropology of the University of California, Berkeley; The University Gallery, California State University, Hayward; the Asian Art Museum of San Francisco; and the Los Angeles County Museum of Art.

The San Francisco Rug Fair, a dealers' show adjacent to the conference meeting rooms in the Marriott Hotel, is open to the public as well. In addition to high-quality pieces on display and for sale, the Fair features rug weaving and restoration, as well as displays by museums, publishers and book dealers.

Past International Conferences on Oriental Carpets were held in London, Munich, Washington, D.C., Budapest and Vienna. Four years in preparation, this Sixth International Conference presents a stimulating academic program as well as stunning exhibitions.

The Herbst Pavilion exhibition is open from November 18 through 25, daily from 10am to 5pm. Admission is free for conference registrants. For others, general admission is $5, seniors and children under 12, $3. For information, call 956-1011.

METALSMITHS' FAIR

Watermelon tourmaline pin with sterling silver and 14-karat gold by Oakland jewelry designer Kimberly Kimworth.

Exotic materials such as titanium and niobium, in addition to the traditional gold, silver, and platinum, are used in the jewelry on display and for sale at the third annual Metalsmiths' Fair at Fort Mason November 3 and 4.

The Fair features a juried selection of the best works of more than 35 California artists in jewelry, enamel work, sculpture and blacksmithing. Techniques shown include casting, fabrication, granulation, anodizing, raising and fire-gilding. There will be continuous demonstrations of metalworking throughout the fair, a display of historical pieces from the Guild's private collection, and special pieces made by Fair participants and Guild members to be given as door prizes.

The Metal Arts Guild is a nonprofit public organization founded in 1951 which strives to recognize and promote fine metalworking and craftsmanship in all forms.

The Fair takes place in the Conference Center, Landmark Building A, from 10am to 6pm on Saturday, and from 10am to 5pm on Sunday. A donation of $3 for adults and $2 for seniors is requested. Children under 12 are admitted free. For information, call 531-3074.

CERAMIC TABLEAUX & TROMPE L'OEIL

Sandro Lorenzini spent six years designing and creating stage sets for opera and film director Franco Zefferelli at La Scala in Milan before becoming a fulltime sculptor. It is not surprising that he brings a theatrical quality to his work.

A native of Savona, Italy, Lorenzini first came to California in 1984, when he was a visiting artist at San Jose State University. He works principally in clay, and has taught this medium in several residencies at SJSU, but also works in wood, bronze, and other materials. He was recently awarded a commission for wood sculptures of St. Joseph and St. Clare of Assisi for the Cathedral of San Jose, California.

The series of ten sculptures on view at the Museo ItaloAmericano were executed during his artist-in-residency period at the Katia Lacoste Gallery, San Jose, and his guest-artist visit at SJSU in 1989.

A prolific and prodigious worker, Lorenzini's pieces always deal with the basic elements of earth, air, fire and water, as well as with time and place. The names of some of these pieces reflect his California experiences: Island, The Bridge, Down the Stream, Where and Where From, and The Landscape of Forever. There is always a fantastic element in his work, seen especially in the monumental tableaux-in-the-round Sleeping Boy, Fisherman, and Canoe.

Sharing the Museo's gallery with Lorenzini's sculpture is the first solo exhibition in San Francisco of Frank Damiano's recent paintings and drawings. A master of trompe l'oeil renditions, Damiano says that his present work is "about time and change, about the conception of tradition, and how through history we accept a tradition." He combines in his paintings the concerns of abstraction and realism, while appropriating the imagery of objects drawn from the history of art.

Damiano was included in the Museo's 1988 Sette Giovani Artisti exhibition, featuring the work of seven emerging Italian American artists. He received his Master of Fine Arts degree from the University of California, Davis, in 1988.

His paintings are already being acquired by some of California's most important private collectors.

These two exhibitions opened at the Museo on October 5, and continue through November 25. The gallery is open Wednesdays through Sundays, noon to 5pm (closed on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 22). Admission is free. The Museo is located on the ground floor of Landmark Building C. For information, call 673-2200.

Fort Mason Center is a community-oriented complex with a broad range of activities in the fields of recreation, education, performing arts, visual arts, media, environmental concerns, and health. It is home to over 50 nonprofit organizations (see Resident Directory).

In addition, it is a unique facility for events of from 250 to 10,000 people, with conference and exhibition facilities to fit any event and budget, and a fully equipped, state-of-the-art 440-seat theater.

On 13 acres of San Francisco's northern waterfront, with spectacular views of the Golden Gate Bridge, the Bay, and the hills of Marin, this former military base is now a world-renowned cultural center and National Historic Landmark. Fort Mason Center is part of the GGNRA.

For information about renting space for conferences, meetings, classes, exhibits, special events, or performances, call 441-5706, Monday through Saturday, from 9am to 5pm.
